A Naples developer behind a proposed skyscraper in downtown Orlando will look to the Federal Aviation Administration to make sure its tall tower won't be a hazard to airplanes.

Summa Development Group LLC plans to reach out to the FAA to conduct a study about the proposed 33-story Summit Radisson project at the southwest corner of Pine Street and Lake Avenue, Principal Albert Socol said. He declined to comment further on the project, which would spread over about 1 acre. Summa Development Group developed the adjacent 25-story, $42.6 million CitiTower.

The project would feature a 211-room hotel, 75 condos, 15 "penthouse" units, a six-story parking garage and retail space, according to city of Orlando plans. Amenities include a spa, gym, executive lounge, a rooftop pool and meeting room space, and renderings show the hotel brand would be the upscale Radisson Collection. A cost for the project isn't immediately known.

Address: 108 Lake Ave
